In the Serpent's Power, Thrilling Italian Picture.

Among the attractive feature pictures on the excellent programme at the Breed theater last evening the exciting story of life under Italian skies, entitled in the Serpent's Power, pleased most. This is a very thrilling story of the love affairs of a young Italian girl, who, being enamored of a young American fellow, is repulsed by him, which greatly arouses her ire and she vows all sort of vengeance, but every plan is thwarted, and at the last she attempts to play the winning card, but is thwarted, and at the last she at-mpts to play the winning card, but is gain foiled, and the 'picture ends upply, showing the American hero id his promised American bride, who touring Europe and mets her lover

The Biograph company shows a very picturesque drama of the time of Louis XV entitled The Duke's Plan, which is a fascinating story of the fruitless extempt to separate two kindred souls. There is screamingly funny comedy, showing some new and novel subjects, as well as picturesque subjects both interesting and handsome.

Miss Wolcott sings her very delightful song entitled The Ivy and the Rose, which was written for her, and pleases all, while the illustrated song Just One Word from You has some of the handsomest addes seen this season.
